Description:

One of the earliest obtainable maps of Colorado Territory, based upon state surveys conducted reported to the General Land Office in Denver City in September of 1862. The map shows the early territorial surveys, an early regional depiction of the Rockies with early place names, the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Reservations, rivers, mountains, Bent's Fort, Colorado City, Denver, Henderson's Ranch, Ft. St. Vrain, Golden City, Central City, Bradford, Hamilton, Jefferson, Ft. Garland, Gagsa, and handful of other place names. This example has some minor loss of neat line in the lower left corner (as is frequently the case) and minor loss at two fold intersections. Still, a good example of this notoriously fragile map.
